

Ally Corporate Finance targets infrastructure sector with new vertical focused on power, energy and digital

New dedicated team formed to provide innovative financing solutions across critical infrastructure sectors

NEW YORK, May 1, 2025 /PRNewswire/ -- Ally Financial Inc. (NYSE: ALLY) today announced the launch of a new Corporate Finance division focused on energy and infrastructure finance, specifically targeting the power, energy and digital sectors. This initiative is part of Ally's commitment to delivering tailored financing solutions that meet the evolving needs of businesses operating in these vital industries.

The newly established Energy and Infrastructure Finance group will build on Ally Corporate Finance's legacy of delivering client-centric, sector-specific solutions. The new platform will leverage the team's deep sector experience to meet the growing and evolving capital needs of the U.S. energy transition.

The group will be led by Dan Bernstein, who brings 20 years of experience in structuring and leading senior-secured project finance transactions in the power and energy space. Bernstein will be joined by a team of industry experts, including Kyle Andrucyk, Amanda Winchester, Marcos Donnelly, and Emily Goldstein. The group will report to Bill Hall, president of Ally Corporate Finance.

"The ongoing energy transition, particularly renewable energy and transitional power is increasingly essential to economic development and sustainability," said Dan Bernstein, executive director and group head of Energy and Infrastructure Finance, Ally. "With significant investment opportunities on the horizon, we see tremendous potential to provide customized financing solutions that empower our existing and future clients to thrive."

Ally's Energy and Infrastructure Finance group will provide debt financing for power and energy projects, including solar, wind, and conventional fuels, battery storage systems, power plant and data center construction and acquisition, distributed generation and more. The team offers customized financing to support clients' most critical growth and funding needs.

"By combining our strong capital base with a team that brings decades of industry experience, we're well-positioned to help drive the energy transition," said Bill Hall, president of Ally Corporate Finance. "We are proud to bring Ally's relationship-focused approach to a sector that is essential to the future of infrastructure, sustainability, and economic growth."
